

Ava sells cookies and earns merit badges with her Girl Scout troop. She was born a micro preemie and weighed less than one pound when she first came to Gillette Children's Specialty Healthcare. She underwent several surgeries at Gillette to help reduce spasticity and muscle tightness caused by cerebral palsy.

Her doctors call her a "ball of energy and a really bright light." Today, Ava walks independently, only needing support from her leg braces as she and her Girl Scout troop serve the community.

By supporting Gillette
you help kids become independent and allow Ava to try to beat her record of selling more than 1,000 boxes of Girl Scout cookies!
